

The World of Wheat

By H. O. L. Strang
Director, Research Department

For the first time in four years, the world will produce, in spite of Canada's poor crops, as much wheat as it will consume—about 6,600 million bushels.

From 1933, however, the world consumed each year less than it produced, and so the world surplus which usually is 600 million bushels grew each year, until, by 1934, it amounted to 1,115 million bushels.

Since 1934, each year, however, the world has consumed actually more wheat than it has produced, and so the difference was taken out of the surplus until today the 1,115 million bushels of carry-over has been reduced, not only to 400 million, which is the normal, but down to 450 million. This year, however, the world's crop will be some 200 million bushels more than it was last year, or 7,000 million sufficient to meet the world's needs.

The lesson to be learned here, it seems, is to regard wheat as an international commodity, grown and consumed in large quantities in almost every country of the world, and to remember that deficiencies in any one year in any one country, can easily be made up by equivalent surplus in other countries, or by the ultimate effect upon price.

The following factors have tended to raise the price of wheat. The surplus use of bread grains as feed—Polish and German rye crops expected to be ten per cent under last year—Japan's crop, Canada's wheat—U.S. private wheat estimates reduced from 871 million to 841 million bushels—Roosevelt announced surplus crop control essential.

COUNTRESS REBASKO 3-5
IN SUNDAY PICTURE

Playing the return of an early season game in Basinco, the local ball team met defeat on the Countress diamond by a 3-5 score on Sunday last. Both teams labored under the difficulty of a strong wind facing the batter, and only a small crowd of fans were present to witness the exhibition.

Basinco took a lead in the first part of the game, but Countress kept the score tied by pushing runs across the plate on a combination of hits and errors. About the seventh inning, Countress ran two more runs across the plate on a long fly to the field, which was carried by the wind, making it impossible to nab. Basinco was unsuccessful in threatening the first score, and the game ended after the first of the ninth.

Basinco—A. Arison, C. Donnelly; P. V. Th. Marquardt, Th. Hayes, R. Arison, B. Cary, E. Cuthbert, Derry, R.

Countress—Burrows, C. R. Rasmussen, P. Cador, H. Miller, S. Rasmussen, S. Landefeld, B. Osterberg, L. Levesque, R.

SALES TAX PAYABLE ON PURCHASES MADE PRIOR TO AUG. 10

Edmonton—Provincial tax on goods and services is due and payable on transactions up to and including August 9. It is pointed out by E. Shaugnessy, superintendent of the sales tax branch, while the government declared that the tax remission became effective on August 10, the tax is payable on sales completed before that date, save the superimposed.

"The tax must be paid on articles bought on a charge account at a store if the purchase was made in the period up to and including August 9, even if the account was not paid at that time but at a later date," said Mr. Shaugnessy.

LEYDONMERE MERCHANTS PUZZLED BY NEW SALES TAX ORDERS

Leydonmire, Aug. 16th.—Leydonmire is in a state of upheaval now that the merchants on the Saskatchewan side of the town have decided to comply with the government's wish and collect the education tax of that province.

At a meeting of the business men this week-end, when they discussed the tax, it was also decided that the tax should only be collected from the Saskatchewan residents, but the only solution they can find, according to that residents from both sides of the line were to pay the tax on all purchases made in Saskatchewan, and so overruling their own decision.

The situation now is that the population of the town and district can walk on the west side of Main Street and make all their purchases in Alberta and escape the tax, but the Saskatchewan merchants are now wondering what the final outcome will be.

Board of Trade Dance Held on Friday Night

One of the most entertaining dances of the season, sponsored by the local Board of Trade and held in the Summer Pavilion in the Hotel building, was conducted last Friday night.

Prior the financial angle, the dance was not the success anticipated, due to the holiday season being in full swing, and many people being away from town.

It is reported that expenses were barely met. Ducky and His Orchestra were in full swing, and were really a treat to the dancers to listen to. Every one was looking forward to the return of these boys.

While the date for the next dance has not been announced as yet, it is probable that it will be held around the third of September.

Hussar and District

When Mr. and Mrs. W. Henko and Mrs. F. M. Henko, who were returning from Medicine Hat on Monday, after visiting Mrs. Mary Sklenka, who is in the Medicine Hat Hospital, they narrowly escaped a serious accident.

As the truck crossed the railroad track near the Harris place, a deep rut appeared and in order to avoid it the driver swerved to the other side, and the truck turned over into the ditch which was partly filled with water after the hail storm. No one was injured, but badly shaken up, and the truck was only slightly damaged, though it was a hard job getting it out of the mud. This is a bad place in the road which should be regular before there is more serious trouble.

Feed Relief Urgent Need

HUSSAR FARMERS ASK
MORE EFFICIENT
HANDLING
(From Calgary Herald, Aug. 17.)

HUSSAR—Feed relief is needed a round Hussar for fall and winter maintenance of all stock, and the need is urgent, as there is no proper pasture land around Hussar. Cattle and horse buyers are ever present these days, for in spite of the lack of grass and grain, the stock are in good condition.

There is no hay in the country a round Hussar and not many miles away, though, surprisingly, there are a few good stands of oats and barley. Since the last few rains, the Hussar fields have covered over with green, about with what appears like a lot of green, about three inches high though in a few places it has grown high enough to be cut for fodder, and that it being done near Hussar.

Nothing can bring back the feed crops, and feed must be brought in for fall and winter use. Last year there was too much delay and failure on the part of officials to keep their appointments caused many farmers to make as many as four trips of 30 miles for what should have been accomplished in one trip. This was a real hardship for many, as they were carrying poor feed horses, and could not afford to make these trips once they were alone four times, for the use of feed. Many complained that there was so much red tape connected with it, that it was almost impossible to get what the needed in time for it to be beneficial.

Local Board
The consensus of opinion here is that all relief should be handled by a local board, because its members would be acquainted with each applicant, and would be able to deal with the worthy ones promptly. They also complained that, in addition to slow action, by having to appeal to the police for relief, they lost their self-respect.

The farmers around Hussar feel that they have done their best. It is the fault of those that they did not produce crops, but simply lack of rainfall at the correct time. They have no fear that this district will starve in the desert; the wonderful grass recovery in so many places is witness to the fact that this land will produce, granted moisture, and with the exception of a few fields, the crops have been saved by blown out, because they have been worked too much, the land is in good shape if there is enough moisture.

"Next Year"

The farmers are full of hope for next year. Practically every farm has many acres of summer-fallow land, which has been worked two or three times, and will be in good shape after the fall rains. Even when the winter comes, the crops to harvest two bushels per acre, his summer-fallow is ready for another year.

L. P. Schoelling and other farmers who are only waiting for the crops or conditions here is irrigation. Much of the land around here lies flat, and an easily be irrigated.

Irrigation Project
In this connection there is the irrigation project that Elmer Seely has on his farm at Duck Lake. With a thirty-eight centrifugal pump, he lifts water eight feet from Duck Lake and irrigates 150 acres of Little Duck Lake which has been dry since 1930.

In 1932, Mr. Seely threshed 10,000 bushels of oats off this land, and last year he raised 15,000 worth of grain here when surrounding land barely raised seed. This season, some of the land, not only has a lot of crops, but what that which is irrigated has a fine crop of barley, even though the irrigation was not started until July.

The cost of the project has been $100—$135 for the pump, and 14 days' work with two men, two freeways and teams, approximately $100. The water is lifted eight feet from a ditch 300 feet to be lake, and a six inch stream runs through the sluiceway to irrigate the ditch at the rate of three cubic feet per second, with a flow of 1,000, 600 gallons every twenty-four hours. The pump is operated by a tractor as usual, and one-half gallon of fuel per hour. There are two other good bottom lands that Mr. Seely has broken up and in which he raises good crops every year.

This year the barley and oats will yield 60 to 75 bushels per acre, while the last year the yield was 10 to 15 bushels per acre. The land in the district will barely pay expenses. Mr. Seely is also interested with the Hawkeye Ranching and Farming Co. in a dam across Upper Yellowknife. This should hold water enough to reclaim over a section of dry lake and bottom lands.

"HANDS OFF ALBERTA"

The above phrase has been used, we fear, without due thought having been given to its meaning.

When we, in Alberta, say "Hands off Alberta," we mean that we want no outside interference in the conduct of our own affairs. Were the Dominion Government to accede to our request, they might mean by "Hands off Alberta," the withholding of our needed relief to Alberta citizens as well as non-interference.

In this sense, Alberta does not want a "Hands off Alberta" policy. Alberta is not in a position to conduct her own affairs independent of the rest of Canada. And if we seek to do for ourselves, what is to the disadvantage of all. It is right and proper that those directly interested in our affairs should have the right to voice an objection.

If the Dominion as a whole, or if any other Province in Canada were to attempt to do something to the disadvantage of Alberta, Alberta now enjoys the right of objection. Do we wish to surrender this right? Do we wish to insist that our advice must be ignored?

A child looking at the moon might believe that it has but one side, because he always sees the same side. But the moon has two sides, even though we cannot see the other. Every question has two sides, whether we can see the other side or not. And it is time that we Albertans begin to see the other side.

A Round Table Conference might not only be an advantage to all concerned, but an advantage to the Province of Alberta; much more so than a policy of "Isolation."

Mutual understanding is always productive to greater freedom. And if the citizens of Alberta want Social Credit, we are satisfied that the rest of the Dominion of Canada will be quite agreeable to our having a try at it; but have they not the right to expect at assurance, much greater than they have yet had, that the whole country will not be thrown into chaos.

Let us place our cards on the Dominion Table, and if we are able to show that we desire Social Credit, that it will not produce any serious harm to Canada as a whole; that it will not produce any serious harm to any other Province in Canada, neither any harm to ourselves greater than our ability, and the ability of the Dominion as a whole to recover from, we are satisfied that our request would be granted.

The usual procedure is to place the horse before the cart. And even though the driver may not follow a marked roadway, he does and must head toward a mark and chart some pathway to that mark.

We have made our own mark; let us show now the pathway, and it is the best of paths, affording a measure of safety to travellers over that pathway, the rest of Canada will wish us success, we feel sure.

If we cannot show the roadway to offer at least a reasonable amount of safety to those who must journey over it, much better to follow the highway.

KILL - KILL - KILL!

On with the dance! Step on it; we are late! Hello there are a couple of cars that have run into each other head on! Hurry pass! There are dead and wounded people there on the grass. We might have to go to court as witnesses or carry them to a hospital. Shoo the gas into here! You can pass that truck before we get to the top of that hill. Hurry! Gosh, you almost hit that old lady! Why do people allow women as old as that to get out on the highway? They are all hen-minded. We might have hurt her. There is a hole, you can break through in that line of traffic. Give her the gun. Gee, that was close! Did you hear that fellow swear? We didn't hit him. What's he got to complain about? Blow your horn and make that fellow get over where he belongs! Why, the fool won't give us the right of way! He's going more than forty-five. How can he expect to stay on the pavement at that pace? Hit her up around the right side there! Boy, that scared him! Maybe that will teach him to keep over where he belongs. I thought for a minute we were going to turn turtle. Look, there is another accident! That car is on its top with its wheels in the air! Looks like a big bug on its back doesn't it? There was blood on the grass. Some one must have been badly hurt. Crazy fools, they don't know how to drive, yet they get right out in the traffic. Watch that woman! She is driving all over the road! Run up beside her and give her a blast of the horn! Whew! Didn't her fender kick over when she swerved? I believe it did. Thank heaven she didn't kick fenders with us. It might have caused an accident. I hate woman drivers! Cut around that fellow. Never mind the curve. There isn't anything coming. (Crash!)

Where am I? What has happened to me, doctor. My leg has been cut off! My God!—Exchange.

WHAT'S A HICK TOWN?

According to the big-city born and bred, the formula for a hick town is a place where a hick-fixer is never mistaken for a pistol shot; where lights go out at 9 o'clock; where bedtime is orthodox; where wood peckers eat up the station; where central can tell you whether it's a boy or a girl; where you can just park anywhere, and where fifty grand is as good as a million.

Maybe so. . . . But, to the hick town born and bred, the above formula might better be said as follows:

Our idea of a hick town, so-called, is a place where neighbors still neighbor, where fine cut tobacco is no social handicap, where joyous still holds its charms, where "howdy do" is still a greeting, where the air still contains oxygen, where community spirit lives, where co-operative effort still accomplishes. Yes, where the building of a strong body is natural, and where the possibility of being cheerful is an opportunity.

So isn't it obvious, a hick town is a place where a boy has the best chance to lay a foundation in every way for future greatness and highest accomplishments?

Yes, so-called hick town is a "high-hat" community—it's a "natural." Call it what you may, but it's the right place in which

PRUNING AND MARKING

Weekly letter from the Lathbridge Experimental Station.

During the past 15 years, tomatoes grown and supervised, have been grown side by side at the Lathbridge Experimental Station, and it has been shown that the pruned plants produce such earlier and a greater quantity of ripe fruit than unpruned plants of seasons characterized by periods of prolonged high summer temperatures. The yield of ripe fruit is much greater than in cool seasons, but regardless of the season a certain amount of ripe fruit is always harvested from pruned plants.

Despite the fact that pruning induces earlier fruit maturity in tomatoes, the inherited varietal factor is not disregarded in the different varieties at this station. New and promising varieties are being tested continually and seedlings are given to those most outstanding in earliness. It is interesting to note, however, that the very earliest sorts do not lend themselves to pruning and staking. These are generally referred to as the self-pruning kinds: the Blon and the Parthenon North are striking examples.

At this station the pruning and training the tomato plant for early fruiting often begins in the forcing house where it is transplanted to the field. The seedling is repotted twice, from two to four, and finally six-inch pot before it is transferred to the field. This promotes rapid root growth and development which in turn causes the side shoots to grow early. The side shoots are cut out as soon as they form and only the top shoot is permitted to continue.

It is surprising to note how few home gardeners fully understand the proper method of staking and pruning tomato plants. At this station three strands of No. 9 baling wire are strung along the tomato rows soon after they have been set in the field. A stake may be used for each plant but it is important that it be put in place before the plant is set. Bander wire is used to tie the plants and the stake is taken to keep the loop around the stem loose to prevent girdling. As the plants grow, the small side shoots appear in the axils of the leaves and it is these shoots and not the leaves of the plant that are removed. Quite frequently the home gardener removes the leaves in the pruning process.

It is important that the leaves be left on since they play an essential part in the production of fruit and also provide protection against the blistering sun. After the tomato plant reaches a height of three and a half to four feet the top or leader shoots are removed. At this stage the plant should have at least four or five trusses of fruit. A truss is a cluster of five or six fruits found on the main stem of the tomato plant.

One of the disadvantages of pruning and staking tomatoes is that by eliminating the side shoots the shading effecting element is reduced. Unshaded tomato fruits are often somewhat rough and cracked. This fault, however, is easily forgiven in view of the promise of an early season tomato.

A BONFIRE DOG RESCUE

The rescue of a dog from a Coronation bonfire was the unusual act of a young man, who is going home for Assistant Scoutmaster Robert Bellman of Latham, England.

While helping to keep the crowds back from the big bonfire Bellman was informed that a dog had dashed into the base of the pyre and collapsed.

"Pulling his Scout hat over his face and turning up his collar, Bellman ran into the fire, and in spite of the terrific heat of burning wood, oil and motor tires, groped for the dog, and found it."

Immediately the animal seized his hand in its mouth. By this time, and although his hand was badly scalded, Bellman dragged the dog to safety. Unfortunately the animal was so seriously burnt that it had to be destroyed. The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals awarded Assistant Scoutmaster Bellman the association's Bronze Medal.

THE NORMAL BABY

The number of requests for information prompts the writing of this article on the normal baby.

The following are the general characteristics of the normal, healthy baby:

A good appetite; Absence of vomiting or regurgitation; Bowel movements, one or two in 24 hours;

A steady gain in weight; A constant growth in stature and intelligence;

Clear skin; Bright, wide-open eyes; Alert, springy muscles;

A contented expression; Very little crying; Quiet, unbroken sleep, with eyes and mouth closed;

No evidence of pain or discomfort. The development occurs in the following order for the average normal baby:

The soft spot at the back of the head closes at about ten end of the second month; the one on top of the head between the 14th and 22nd months.

The eyes, usually blue at birth, assume their permanent color in the first three weeks. At six weeks the baby begins to distinguish different objects, and by six months definitely recognizes objects. Hearing and the sense of touch or sound develop about the second month. With the body supported, the head is held up at four months. The baby laughs and smiles at the third to fifth month. He reaches for toys at from the fifth to the seventh month. He sits erect and creeps at from the seventh to the tenth month. He attempts to stand at the ninth or tenth month, and can, with assistance, usually stand at the tenth or eleventh month. He begins to walk at the twelfth or thirteenth month and usually can walk alone by the fourteenth or fifteenth month. He can usually speak a few words at one year, and short sentences at the end of the second year.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Brown with some friends from Duchess Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. Wallace's Fintona.

The wheat cutting is general in the Colony and some very fine fields of crops can be seen.

There was a very successful dance in the Gem Schoolhouse on Saturday night put on by the Melody Five. We believe there will be another put on on the 26th.

WATERLEAF PRIZE FOR BADEN-POWELL

Lord Baden-Powell, World Chief Scout, has been awarded the 1937 Waterleaf prize price of $10,000, "for valuable services to international good will by means of the Boy Scout organization." The Waterleaf prize was founded by a "Motherhood" of that name, who left his entire fortune to endow an annual prize to be awarded the person contributing the most valuable service to the cause of peace.

Crowfoot Notes

(Too late for last week)

A splendid shower fell over the district last Friday and another on Sunday. A nice amount of moisture soaked into the ground and it has materially helped the pasture and feed problems although too late for the wheat.

Several cars drove to the ball game at Countess Sunday. Rodhouse's, Herford's and Buigars.

Donald Walker spent Sunday at N. B. Braye's.

Mr. Lawrence, with a crew of men, are working on the roads, which are badly in need of repairs. It is to be hoped more work will follow this fall and it is reported that it will.

Mrs. Heffebower spent Tuesday in Calgary.

Several farmers would like to procure rye for fall sowing, but there does not seem to be any available—anyway not till after threshing.

A lot of Russian Thistles is being put up for feed.

Miss Mable Stadler who has been visiting the Herford brothers and her son, Lester Connolly, returned on Monday evening to her home in Everett, Wash. Mrs. Stadler is a sister of the Herford family.

Miss Eleanor Heffebower is expected home Sunday for ten days to be the guest of her mother.

Mr. Don Portney was a caller in the neighborhood on Sunday.

Mr. John DesChamps of Standard was a visitor at the Heffebower home on Sunday.

OIL KEEPS DUST FROM BLOWING AT CARDSTON

The town of Cardston, disgusted with the dust nuisance, has called the main streets of the town. This move has received so much favorable comment that the citizens are now agitating for the rest of the streets to be treated the same way. "The Cardston News states: 'The greatest achievement of Mayor Low and the council was the silencing of the main streets, and people have been heard to say that we should oil the rest throughout the town, for the little extra cost of this oil would be well repaid to us by the elimination of dust and dirt, and the extra invitation it would be to the tourists to come into the town instead of going by it.'"

Arrowwood Notes

We are pleased to report that Mrs. W. Thompson is well on the road to recovery after her recent illness.

Mrs. D. J. McIntyre and Jean were visitors to Calgary last week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Jacques returned home Friday after spending a two week holiday at Banff.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Burgess, Mr. H. Burgess were visitors at the home of Mrs. James Ward on Sunday.

We are pleased to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Sheeran and family to Arrowwood. Mr. Sheeran is our new C. P. R. Agent.

The Arrowwood Ladies' Social Club (Group) will meet on Wed. next, August 25th.

Miss Marjorie Conn and Wm. Conn of Hatfield, Idaho, are visiting Jean Leifridge.

Miss Millicent Taylor of the telephone staff left on Saturday morning for her holidays. She intends visiting with her parents at the coast.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Garland of Glendora, Mr. and Mrs. V. Bertrand of Mito, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson of Glendora, are visiting Jean Leifridge.

Mr. Ward of Arrowwood were Sunday guests at the McElvaine home.

On Friday evening last, a little excitement was stirred up on main street when a horse, ridden by one of our youthful farmers, became over-lysk and broke one of the windows in Clifgard's General Store.

The Queenstown-Arrowwood Juniors lost both games of a double-header held at Drumheller on Wed. Aug. 11th.

The first game offered the fans a nice brand of baseball despite the uneven score of 14-1. The second game proved the superiority of the hard-hitting Drumheller nine, they pushed 19 runs home while the best the local boys could do was 5.

Mrs. R. P. Williams and Mrs. P. Stull were hostesses to the Arrowwood U.P.W.A. on Aug. 9th. Fifty-four ladies were present to enjoy a talk by Mrs. C. McIntyre from the Old School of Agriculture, on "Community and Family Relationship, and what makes one act that way." Mrs. Downe from Calgary gave several of her delightful poems and told what conditions she had written them under. Other items consisted of musical numbers, contests and a delicious lunch.

The W. A. of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. E. B. Dettin Thursday, Aug. 12th, with Mrs. P. P. P. in the chair.

The meeting opened with a hymn, and Mrs. P. P. P. read the devotionals, after which the usual business was conducted. It was decided to hold a parcel post sale at the next meeting, each member to donate two parcels valued at 25c. The September meeting is to be held at Mrs. Pongers'. Mrs. Clifgard gave her Sunshine report. The meeting then adjourned after which a delicious lunch was served. The hostesses for the day were, Mrs. E. B. Dettin and Mrs. Walter Steiner.

When the motorcycle upon which he was riding, struck loose gravel, 3 miles west of Moosalegh, throwing him into the ditch, Steve Klement, 38, of Calgary, was fatally injured at 5 p.m. Sunday. John Dienes, 54, his companion on the motorcycle at the time of the accident, was critically injured. Summoned to the scene of the accident, Dr. E. J. Leesmer of Arrowwood pronounced Klement, who was still lying by the overturned machine, dead. Dienes was removed to the General Hospital by Star's ambulance, Dr. E. R. Selby taking charge of the patient. Dienes was found to be suffering from a fractured skull broken hands, broken ribs and face lacerations. The inquest which was held in Arrowwood on Monday, was adjourned until Wed. Aug. 25, pending the recovery of Dienes.
